From text message:

“ Went to Taylor Fk buddy. Road was horrible so just didn't want to keep driving. Snow was epic! The new snow was definitely breaking. That said, we saw no naturals. We did avoid slopes of avalanche angle of any size. But small hills that had the right angle were fracturing and propagating even remotely
