

Good Snow in Bacon Rind

Date

Fri, 02/21/2025 - 13:00

Activity

Skiing

Skied the Bacon Rind Skillet on 2/21 based on the GNFAC's good report from their snow pit on 2/19 and had no signs of instability. Wind on 2/21 was from the SE and was moving some snow around down low (filled in the old skin track) but things were sheltered in the trees. Not much drifting in the meadows towards the top either. There was a thin melt/freeze crust formed on solar aspects lower down (up to ~500 feet above the parking). We were there from about 10:00 - 14:00 and it was cloudy all day, the snow never got very wet or heavy.
